

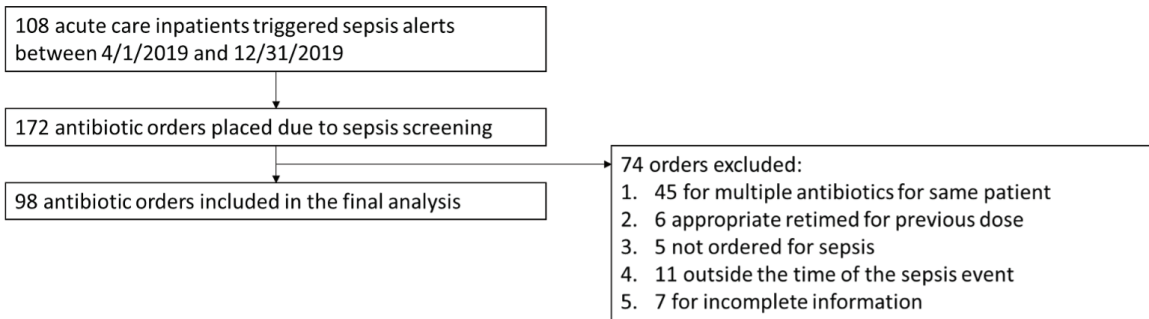

Figure S1. Antibiotic orders placed surrounding a sepsis alert at UPMC-CHP from April–December 2019. Sepsis alerts are automated alerts built into the electronic health record, based on clinical and vital sign parameters that notify a provider to consider sepsis in a patient. The antibiotic order after an alert suggests that the provider believes that alert has identified a true case of sepsis.

UPMC-CHP, University of Pittsburgh Medical Center Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh